

The Packing of the Glove

To us, every pair of gloves is like a little baby bird leaving its nest for the first time. As any mother would we will protect our little ones from harm until they're fully ready to take on the world. In the world of gloves that means making sure our packaging and transportation is the safest and most qualified for our products.

Final touches

Before the gloves leave our factory we make sure each and every pair is properly presentable. Meaning, we dress them up according to your requests. If that means putting on hang tags - then that's what we'll do.

We pair each glove up for an optimal delivery.

Final finishes

When the gloves are paired we pack them into a protective plastic case to make sure they maintain their good looks and qualities. It's only after that we neatly pack them into boxes. That's a wrap - ready to go!

Ship a'hoy!

So our gloves need to be transported from our factories in Asia to our warehouse in Sweden. Because the quantity is so large we need to ship them - literally. These ships are huge and it'll take up to 4 weeks to reach our European harbor. Once they've come ashore, they'll go on a roadtrip for another week before reaching our warehouse.
